THE MURDER OF POLICEMAN SMITH. RAPIDLY REVIEWING THE OLD EVIDENCE-THE LETTEES BETWEEN BENNETT AND MRS. SMITH WHILE IN PERSON TO BE READ TO DAY.

Thirty-four witnesses were examined yesterday at the trial of Mrs. Jennie R. Smith and Covert D. Bennett. The number of spectators at the courthouse in Jersey City was much greater than on the previous day. The rapidity with which the testimony proceeded was a surprise even to District-Atterney McGill. He said at the close of the session that he hoped to complete the evidence for the prosecution to-day. Many of the witnesses who were examined during the morning hours were used to identify the knife and sash-weight found in the were examined during the morning hours were used to identify the knife and sash-weight found in the vault in the rear of Smith's house as articles which had belonged on the premises, and with which the nurder is believed to have been committed. Among these witnesses was Abriham C. Carman, the stepfather of the accused woman. The prosecution, it is understood, holds that the concealment of the weanons in the vault is one of the strongest proofs of Mrs. Smith's guilt, because any other person in committing the murder would have purposely left the weapons in the room where the deed was done. Dr. Lampson, who assisted at the post-mortem examination of Officer Smith's body, described the wounds, and said that Mrs. Smith did not have the physical strength to inflict the injuries on Smith's body. Captain Michael G. Lennon, of the Jersey City Police, gave an account of the scenes which he witnessed in the Smith residence on the morning of the nurder. The most important evidence for the State was given by Detective MeHorney, of Jersey City, whose testimony occupied more than half a day at the trial in February last. He was allowed to tell his story briefly yesterday, but he brought out no new points in his evidence.

The finding of a gentleman's handkerchief spread ont on a bench in the cellar of Smith's house on the morning of the nurder, was brought out as an indication that the murderer was Bennett, who is known to be very nice in his habits and careful of his clothing.

Several witnesses were called to show that Mrs.

Bennett's conduct in iail was described by some of his fellow-prisoners. It was asserted that several months ago he said to them; "Tures months ago to-day I killed a man," and then added, as if to correct himself, "You needn't think I mean Harry Smith, though some may think so." The remainder of the witnesses were called to identify Bennett's handwriting for the purpose of putting in evidence some letters which based between himself and Mrs. Smith in the jail. These letters will be brought into court to-day. They are believed to contain strong proof of the guilt of both the prisoners.

DEPOSITORS EAGER FOR REVENGE. ACTION AGAINST OFFICERS OF THE SUSPENDED TRUST COMPANIES IN JERSEY CITY AND NEW

Francis D. Carr, secretary of the suspended International Trust Company of Jersey City, and Charles M. Field, one of the trustees, who were jointly indicted with President Hayt, appeared in the Hudson County Court House, at Jersey City, yesterday, to give bonds to await trial. The indictments allege that the three men published a statement that the company had a paid-up capital of $200,000 for the security of its depositors, knowing that the statement was false. The bail of Mr. Carr and Mr. Field, who both pleaded not gadty, was placed at $5,000 each. Edward Wilson, the eashier of the Second National Bank, became the bondsman of Mr. Carr, Mr. Field's bonds being signed by the Hon, Orestes Cleveland, president of the F. Dixon Crucible Company of Lorsey City.

At an adjourned meeting of the depositors of the suspended American Trust Company of Newark. Monday evening, Homas S. Henry reported that the committee appointed at the last meeting for that purpose had waited upon the Grand Jary, who listened attentively to their grievatices. He believed that some of the trustees were crimically guilty and liable to the depositors and to indictment, especially as they had falsely advertised a paid-up cash capital of $250,000. Mr. Bryan, from the committee on bringing civil suits against the trustees, reported that he had consulted leading lawyers, who stated that the depositors had good grounds of action against the trustees individually. Several speakers said it would be wrong to prosecute the innocent with the guilty. They urged the bringing of civil rather than criminal suits. After further discussion a committee was appointed to receive grievances of individual depositors and report at the next meeting. It is stated that the trustees fear that they may be indicted.

Edward Cook, fearing that his father would be killed, seized an oar and struck Fidell a heavy blow on the skull. The blood spirted from both of Fidell's cars, and he sank to the bottom of the bay. The meeting of the American Geographical ociety at Chickering Hall last night was the last one of the season, and it was attended by an audience which filled the hall in every part. General George W. A paper on " Modern Ocean Highways" was read by A. A. Hayes, jr., which was illustrated by fifty stereop-ticon views. The lecture was frequently interrupted by applause. Mr. Hayes said most voyagers in these days se m impelled, aiter passing a certain distance from their homes, to draw more or less upon the imagination for the details which they furnish. It is not many years since the destinations of vessels bound "around the Horn" were mainly the west coast of South America. Panama, Mexico, the Pacific Islands and the divers haunts of the whale. The conquest of California by the United States in the Mexican war, and the subsequent discovery of gold, sent many sailing vessels by this same stormy route, and many steamers through the Straits of Magellan, to the little Spanish settlement of Yerba Buena, where now stands the fine City of San Francisco Then tollowed the Isthmus and Nicaragua transits, and the services of steamers on both sides. but Volcabarea was the natural objective point for a line from California; a conclusion which was emphatcally clinched by the construction of the Pacific Rail-

Japan itself and the route thither were opened by the Japan itself and the route thither were opened by the United States; and, if one may judge by treeent occurrences, it is fortunate that these openings took place when they did, or they might never have taken place at all. We seen a forendable fleet under Commodore Perry to open communication, forcibly, if necessary, with Japan, because, as we declared, no nation had the right to exclude citizens of ether nations from her shores. On the way to Japan the fleet stepped at China ports for supplies, and the "moon-eyed lepers," as it is now the lashion to call them, came to view the fire-ships of the lorburdans with their stold indifference. They ought, doubties, to have changed their minds when they heard of the dicting so distance that the man, which suddiffer-ships were to enforce; and they must have learned with heen satisfaction that, within a quarter of a century, on: Recreasonatives at Washington, with a bruinland self-stellitying haste, have pitched the Declaration of Independence into the gutter, and have committed their country to the statements that this was all a mistake, that we did not mean anything of the kind; that what was suice for the goose is emphatically not sauce for the gander, and that a mation has an undoubted right to exclude the citiz is no explosed to another Power from its borders (always previded that we are sure that the other won't light), on the ground that there may be a change of securing thereby, for one party or the other, a small fraction of the "workingman's vote." If any one tells you that the Chinese Government is angry or disfressed at the action of Congress, I counsel you not to be like we had utterly abendoned the practically not fine for a know of few things which we had supported so stoully twenty-twe years noe. This matter is quite apropos of occuration by the Chinese for the wind is opredictions. The opening of the Pacific route to the Orient was an enterprise deserving of streat penies, and it has done very much for the commerce of the world, but it has a powerful competitor in the Sacar Canad. Mr. Hayes next took his anothere through "Fireshie Travels" over some of the principal their way a. His opening trip was from San Francisco to Australia, which occupies about twenty-five days. From this point, he said, one can go on around the world by two resites, either by Melboarne and King George's Sagned and thense to Ceylon; or by the castern coast of Australia and through Torres Steals to Singapore. Of the Red Sea he said multinon of the explorations of the name were satisfactory or conclusive. He thought that the lands in which tradition places the cradle of the race should be visited to improve comprehension of the meaning of the word antiquity. The speaker there carried his analyses on an imaginary trip across the Medicerranean to Brindis and Venice, Malta, Gibraliar and Sauthampton, and thence by London or Liverpool to New York. Referring to the general diclike for the fancied dangers of an Eastern tour, Mr. Hayes said: "Of all the long Jonney around the globe, from the time you lose sight of the spire of old Trinity until it comes in view again, the most patience-trying, unconfortable and dangerous perton is between Laverpool and New-York."

THE KINGS COUNTY SURROGATESHIP,

ANOTHER VICTORY FOR MR. DAILEY, THE PRESENT INCUMBENT.

The General Term of the Supreme Court, Hd District, now in session at Poughkeepsle, yesterday rendered a decision in the appeal in the case of Walter L. Livingston against Abram H. Dalley, sustaining the decision of the lower court in favor of Mr. Dailey. The parties in these proceedings were candidates for the Surrogateship of Kinss County in the Full of 1876. Mr. Lavingston was the coalidon candidate of the Republicans and Independent Democrate, while Mr. Dailey was the regular Democratic candidate. Mr. Livingston, however, was successful by a majority of 288, but Mr. Dailey began proceedings to onet Mr. Lavingston. The case came on for trial on April 23, 1877, and Judge Gilbert decided that the canvassers had erred in not counting the 240 defective bailots. A recount of ballots was made in centri in a number of boxes, relained for a year after each election, and the jury accepted this count. Mr. Livingston's majority was thus wiped out, and Mr. Dailey was declared elected. Mr. Livingston claimed that the ballot-boxes had been tampered with, but his appeal was decided adversely yesterday.

Much attention was attracted to the case in November last by the allegations of Martin Taylor, a painter, that he had taken three hallstabor two free for the Server. ing the decision of the lower court in favor of Mr.

IMPROVEMENTS OBSTRUCTED.

In the improvements of the water fronts frequent complaints have been made that the Dock Department did not fully appreciate the needs of commerce. Suggestions have also been made that small coasting vessels could well be provided with wharf privileges further up the river, so that the wharf privileges further up the river, so that the down-town piers might be set apart for the exinsive use of deep-sea vessels. These suggestions ave been considered by the Dock Commissioners at recent meetings, but the contemplated improvements are obstructed by persons who hold a large proportion of the water front as private property upon leases granted by the city many years ago. The Commissioners have declared that while indi-The Commissioners have deslared that while indi-viduals may own the property up to the line of the water front, the city owns beyond that point and has the right to construct bulkheads and pers thereon, and that they intended to seize the prop-erty for the city and for the advancement of its commerce. This right is denied by the private owners, an association has been formed by them, and they are determined to have the question de-cided in the courts. Complaints are made to the Dock Department that upon much of this so-called private property there is an accumulation of de-Dock Department that upon much of this so-called private property there is an accumulation of deposit from the drainings of the sewers, which emits foul gases. The owners, who have been ordered to dredge to a certain depth to dispose of this accumulation, deny the Commissioners' authority to put them to such an expense.

The question of private property on the water front is now before the Commissioners in another form. A ferry company proposes to run from the content of the company proposes to run from the content of the con

East River, and while the Commissioners claim the right to sell at auction the use of the water front at that point, the private the use of the water front at that point, the private owners deny this right by virtue of a lease granted to them February 20, 1824. This lease grants to Thomas L. Ogden and Ferkins Nichols a front of 422 feet 2 inches, taking in Sixth, Seventh, and Earthbests, from high-water mark, jast below the boundaries of Lewisest, giving them the right of the ground under water. Land has been made from the original high-water mark, 872 feet 2 inches into the river, and Mangin and Tompkins-six, have been cui through it. The provisions of this lease are peculiar. The lessees and their heira were obliged to construct public wharves, and claim to be entitled to all revenues therefrom. As the lease is a perpetual one, it is said that it becomes null and void, as no lease can be so drawn and be legal.

LIFE IN REBEL PRISONS.

RECALLING THE WEARY MONTHS AT BELLE ISLE, ANDERSONVILLE AND OTHER PLACES OF FOR-The sixth annual meeting of the National Union of Survivors of Andersonville and other Southern illitary prisons was held at the Rossmore Hotel yester day. Sixty ex-soldiers were present. In opening the meeting President Robert L. Kellogg said, we cannot if we would forget Andersonville, Sailsbury, Florence, Millen, Labby, Belle Isle, and other prison pens of the South with the weary days of our impursonment. We should not fail to do justice to the menory of the thousands of brave men who died lingering and terrible deates rather than prove false to their country and the cause of buman freedom.

Several felegrams and letters from absent members were read. An ex-President of the association, Egra H. Ripple, of Seranton, Penn., wrote: "Do not waste any time passing resolutions of conclination. It has not paid in the past, and I think some of the resolutions should come from the other side. The 'Blue and the Gray' sounds well, but I notice the gray stands just about where it did eighteen years ago, if we can judge any thing from what we see and hear."

Among the officers elected were: President, J. W. Merrill, of New-York; vice-president, Coisnel Egra H. Ripple, of Seranton, Penn; recording secretary, B. F. Blakesley, of Hartford, Conn.; corresponding secretary, Hram Euckingbum, of Chester, Conn.

Addresses were made by Burnham Wardwell, of Boston, Dr. Augustus C. Harrilla, Mayer of Banger, Me., W. L. Gess and J. W. Merrill. meeting President Robert L. Kellogg said, we cannot a
